

These Final Hours Patch Activity Sheet

During WWII, civilians on the home front tried to use their talents to help the war effort. Many animators and movie production companies helped with propaganda films, advertisements and helping improve moral among the soldiers by designing custom unit insignias. The insignia above was never used in active duty but it is a good example of some of the cartoonish designs they would come up with.